Hannah & Jimmy

October 3, 2009

Jimmy and I met at Purdue University while venturing off to a fraternity party, thanks to a mutual friend. We have so many fun and crazy memories from school.

Our vision for our October wedding was simple. We wanted it to be fun for our guests and different from any wedding we had ever been to. The colors we chose – deep purple and rust – elegantly reflected the season.

We're still dancing and love it!

Something we were very excited about was our dessert table. It was a showcase of family favorite desserts, such as Grandma Great's yeast rolls, Aunt Joanne's wafer cookies (a.k.a. cookies from hell), Grandma Schmidt's Italian creme cake, Aunt Sue's buckeyes, Aunt Linda's apple crisp, and the list goes on and on. It was a great way to involve our family, and it ended up being a huge hit. We still get compliments about how great it was.

My favorite wedding moment was, without a doubt, our first dance. We had secretly been taking ballroom dance lessons to learn the final dance from "Dirty Dancing," one of my favorite movies. We shocked the crowd, and a video of our dance even made it onto YouTube. We'll never forget how much fun we had. We're still dancing and love it!
